FRENCH ARCHIVES AND DEPOSITORIES.

The Illinois Historical Survey has been acquiring copies of manuscripts from French Archives and depositories relating to American History since 1907. The work was mainly the result of the efforts of the first two directors of the Survey, Clarence W. Alvord and Theodore C. Pease, but interest continues to the present. The earliest copies are handwritten, but the greater part of the collection, secured in the years 1933-1948, is in the form of photocopies or microfilm. This material when added to the microfilm of the Cahokia and Kaskaskia records and the appropriate items from the British and Spanish Collections forms a most significant body of papers on the colonial period in the Illinois Country. Many of the French documents were reproduced in various volumes of the Illinois Historical Collections. A history of the Survey's activities in obtaining its copies of manuscripts is discussed in two books by Henry Putney Beers, The French in North America (Baton Rouge, 1957) and The French and the British in the Old Northwest (Detroit, 1964).

Guides and Other Finding Aids

For both a general description and a detailed listing of materials relating to American history which are available in the official French archival repositories and in the libraries of Paris, these publications of the Carnegie Institution of Washington are important: Waldo G. Leland (editor), Guide to Materials for American History in the Libraries and Archives of Paris, Vol. I, Libraries, (Washington, 1932) and Vol. II, Archives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (Washington, 1943). An excellent chronological list of manuscripts is to be found in N. M. Miller Surrey (editor), Calendar of Manuscripts in Paris Archives and Libraries Relating to the History of the Mississippi Valley, to 1803, Vol. I, 1581-1739 (Washington, 1926), Vol. II, 1740-1803 (Washington, 1928). Useful also is L. H. Gipson's A Guide to Manuscripts Relating to the History of the British Empire, 1748-1776, Vol. XV of The British Empire Before the American Revolution (New York, 1970). In addition see "Copies of French manuscripts for American History in the Library of Congress", Journal of American History, II, 674-691.

Because of the extent of its holdings, guides to the transcripts in the Canadian Archives are also invaluable. The Canadian Archives began a program of copying appropriate French archives in 1883. Its Annual Reports and other publications contain calendars and descriptive material relating to the document series from the various depositories. Also, they include many documents printed in full. Particular reference should be made to David W. Parker's A Guide to the Documents in the Manuscript Room at the Public Archives of Canada, Vol. I, Publication of the Archives of Canada No. 10 (Ottawa, 1914). This author's descriptions of the various series of French archives include references to calendars and descriptions previously printed in the Annual Reports. In addition, the Preliminary Inventories of Manuscript and Record Groups published by the Public Archives of Canada are of value; however, they are at present being replaced by the General Inventory, Manuscripts.

The copies of manuscripts from French archives and depositories are in the form of microfilm, photocopies, and typed or handwritten transcripts. To aid the scholar, chronological and archival card files exist. As in the case of the British collection, there are also extensive calendar notes on various groups of French papers. These were made by Professors C. W. Alvord and T. C. Pease.

Organization

The Survey's copies of French manuscripts are arranged alphabetically by depository with the national archives preceding other libraries (as in the case of the Survey's British material). The numbering system utilized below is basically that used by the respective depository. The underlined numbers appearing in the left hand column, unless otherwise indicated, refer to a volume number. The next number, in parenthesis, indicates the items of that volume held by the Survey; these items may take the form of photocopies, office machine reproductions, typed or handwritten copies, or microfilm. Other indications as to the form of the material are self-explanatory. The dates generally refer to either the inclusive dates of the Survey's holdings or to the dates used by the respective depository. Following this information is a brief description of the material which is not meant to be exhaustive. To determine the exact items in the Survey's collection of materials from French Archives, it is necessary to consult the archival card file.

Manuscripts

ARCHIVES NATIONALES. PAPERS, 1671-1808. 3319 items including items in one bound volume and on four reels of microfilm. Transcripts, photocopies, microfilm. Archival card file. 61-2205, 61-1839.

The main and most significant French archival depository is the Archives Nationales located in Paris. The Illinois Historical Survey has reproductions from these four important collections: the Archives des Colonies, the Archives de la Guerre, the Archives de la Marine, and the Archives Nationales - Section Ancienne.

ARCHIVES DES COLONIES

This group contains the records and correspondence relative to the administration of the French colonies. It is but one of several important French archival sources relevant to the colonies. The history of the Colonial Archives and their relationship to the Marine Archives is described in the General Inventory, Manuscripts, I, 1-4. See also Gipson's Guide..., 362-367, and Parker's Guide... (1914), 212-254.

The archives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs are divided into three main groups: Correspondence Politique, Memoires et Documents, and Correspondence des Consuls; in addition, there is a supplementary section to the first group. The Survey has reproductions of manuscripts from the first two groups mentioned, as well as from the supplementary section. Within these groups, documents are arranged by country, and subdivided chronologically. For a description of this material see Leland's Guide..., Vol. II, Parker's Guide... (1914), 255-262, and also Gipson's Guide..., 367-382.

The Survey's material from this archival group forms part of the basis of the monograph length introduction by Theodore C. Pease to Anglo-French Boundary Disputes in the West, Illinois Historical Collections, Vol. 27 (Springfield, 1936). Many of the following documents are printed in that text (some are incomplete).
