Series 1: Personal Papers, 1955-2020s

This series is arranged into five sections with files arranged chronologically thereunder: (1) Posters, containing an oversize certificate; (2) McWorter's grade school through university materials (arranged by school); (3) passports and IDs; (4) legal records; and (5) his records re archiving materials. The latter includes letterheads and stationery from organizations and locations McWorter was involved in.

A brief diary and resignation letter (summer 1975) from McWorter's time as a Maître D with Amtrak are at the end of the University of Chicago (PhD) material. He had just received his PhD but had not yet started as faculty at the University of Illinois Chicago.

Family Papers and Photographs Boxes

Preliminary arrangement reflecting Gerald McWorter's generation labels, which are incorrect, however. Oversize photographs, diplomas, and paintings are listed at the end. According to McWorter, plastic sleeves in boxes are archival. Materials were donated to the archives in May 2026 and the archives neither had the time to process nor do necessary preservation work as of August 2026.

The boxes contain originals and photocopies of McWorter family records, secondary materials, and photographs (generic term for various photographic processes) including those of Frank "Free Frank" McWorter (1777-1854) and Lucy Denham (1770-1870) and going up to 2025. Many McWorter's labels refer to himself as "Abdul," including childhood photos, even though he took on that name unofficially only years later. Some materials, in particular the photographs/albums are very fragile and require careful handling or initial preservation work. For the 1996 bust of Frank "Free Frank" McWorter (1777-1854) sculpted by Shirley McWorter Moss, see Series 16.

Until these boxes can be processed in the future, we are here including McWorter's incorrect generation labels (in quotes) and the archivist's 2-minute per box appraisal notes (italicized).
Note: when researching or processing these materials, records and 19th century photographs found in a box of a later generation may e.g. represent ancestors of the later generation. Do not resort or pull materials from a box unless you are sure that you know/keep track of the original historical/genealogical context.

17. Family Papers and Photographs Box 1a – Gerald McWorter's "roughly the first generation," 1838-1998, circa 2010s
    - "Free Frank McWorter Lost Family Papers" (photograph), June 6, 1998
      Note based on conversation with Gerald McWorter, spring 2026, the photograph shows a bundle of Free Frank McWorter family papers that Gerald McWorter does not have. In the 1920s, his aunt, Thelma Wheaton, heard of demonstrations at Fisk University against racial discrimination and decided to attend Fisk, bringing the bundle of Free Frank family papers (in the photograph) with her. The remaining family records in Pike County (New Philadelphia) were destroyed in a subsequent fire. Thelma passed the Free Frank McWorter materials to her daughter, Juliet Walker. Using these records, Walker wrote her dissertation Free Frank and New Philadelphia: Slave and Freedman, Frontiersman and Town Founder" (1976, University of Chicago). Because Walker still has the materials and is estranged from the family as of 2026, the family cannot verify what materials she had used in her dissertation and the accuracy of her family history.

Family Albums

Arranged by album number (rough chronology); existing indices listed before corresponding album.

This section contains McWorter family albums, i.e. mostly photographs (some individuals are identified) but also correspondence, event programs, church records, newspaper clippings, lists of family members, recipes, Free Frank McWorter family reunion records, and other materials. Some albums have indices in which McWorter identifies some individuals, dates, and events.

Because materials were donated to the archives in May 2026, the archives did not have the time to do most processing or any preservation work (as of summer 2026). Some albums are very fragile and require careful handling or preservation work prior to handling.

Box 12:

1. Family Album 1 index created by Gerald McWorter, April 29, 2026
2. Family Photograph Album 1, circa 1940s-2011

Box 13:

1. Family Photograph Album 10, 2007
   Photographs of Gerald McWorter and Kate Williams while on a trip to Hannibal, Missouri.
2. Family Photograph Album 11, 1920-1968
   Note: Album belonged to Geraldine Gorum (Thelma Wheaton's cousin) and includes photos of Gorum as well as Troy Gorum in the 1920s. Photos are mostly labeled. Album covers and many pages are detached, and some photographs are falling out. Additionally, there are loose, largely unlabeled photographs and postcards on the last page. Albums may need preservation work before use.

3. Friends Club of Church of the Good Sheperd Album 14, 1950s-2000s
   Photographs, correspondence, event programs, church records, and newspaper clippings.
4. POBLA Album 15, 1964-1976
   Materials related to McWorter family members' involvement in POBLA, a literary society based out of Good Shepard Church. Family members involved were Gladys Crushshon, Alberta Ewing, Thelma Wheaton, and Sandra McWorter. Non-archival photograph album caused deterioration of photographs - needs to be replaced. Some photos and labels are detached; there are loose materials at end, including a list of African American historical figures with dates ranges.

Family Reunion Albums

Family reunion albums include lists of family members, photographs (many with people identified), newspaper clippings, event programs, correspondence, and may include other materials.

5. Family Reunion Album 12, 1980-1992
   Note: Some records not attached.
6. Family Reunion Album 13, circa 1981
   Many records and photographs not attached. Non-archival photograph album caused deterioration of photographs - needs to be replaced.

New Philadelphia Association Records

Arranged into two sections: (1) New Philadelphia Association Records (NPA) and (2) New Philadelphia Notebooks.

New Philadelphia, located in Western Illinois near the town of Barry, was the first U.S. town incorporated by an African American. The town's founder, "Free" Frank McWorter, was Gerald McWorter's great-great grandfather. Free Frank purchased his freedom in 1836 and moved to Illinois, where he established this town and earned money to purchase other family members' freedom in Kentucky. The McWorter family has worked to preserve Free Frank's memory through genealogical research and the New Philadelphia Association, establishing the New Philadelphia National Historic Site and Free Frank Memorial Day.

New Philadelphia Association Records (NPA)

Arranged chronologically.

Formed in 1999, the New Philadelphia Association focuses on the preservation and memory of the New Philadelphia town site, located near Quincy, IL. The Association is primarily comprised of members of the McWorter family and local inhabitants in the New Philadelphia area. Work began with the identification of the New Philadelphia site and conducting an archaeological survey and field school to verify the significance of the site. NPA then moved to have the town recognized as a National Historic Site. NPA published several books and held many events to publicize the historical significance of its site and to encourage genealogical research which is essential for this type of history. Other NPA achievements include the designation of "Free Frank Freedom Day" and the "Free Frank Memorial Highway."

Series 3: The Poor People's Campaign Photographs by Chester Sheard (Poor People's March), 1968

Chester Sheard's original arrangement in binders was maintained.

Chester Sheard (1929-2015) worked as musician, as reporter for the Milwaukee Sentinel, and as self-taught photographer documenting African American musicians, the civil rights movement, and the Poor People's Campaign in 1968.

This series includes Sheard's negatives, contact sheets, photographs, and his poster of the Poor People's Campaign or Poor People's March that the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) organized in 1968. Sheard traveled with one of the campaign's nine caravans from Memphis, Tennessee, May 1, 1968, to Marks, Mississippi (May 2 to 7), then via Alabama on to Nashville, Tennessee (May 9), Knoxville, Tennessee (May 10), and Danville, Virginia (May 11), arriving in Washington D.C. on May 12, 1968.

His approximately 2,300 negatives are unique, documenting as they do the living conditions and actions of thousands of impoverished African Americans who, otherwise, are largely invisible in recorded history. Sheard shows these African Americans in their various home locations and in the Resurrection City in Washington D. C. focusing e.g. on housing, medical care, food, bedding, police presence, entertaining, Campaign events, teaching, or welfare. He portrayed many children as well as activists, ministers, artists, and politicians who supported the campaign ranging from Nancy Wilson, Pete Seeger, Gwendolyn Brooks, Jessie Jackson, Andrew Young, Ralph David Abernathy Sr., Rev. Albert Sampson, Hosea Williams, James Bevel, Bill Cosby, and Coretta King, for instance.

Sheard gave these negatives, contact sheets, photographs, and poster to Sandra Rosalie McWorter Marsh also known as Aysha (sister of Gerald McWorter) in 1968. He included a note to her (folder 1) stating that she can use them for free but to credit his work. Sandra McWorter Marsh signed over the materials to her brother Gerald McWorter on August 14, 2020, who, in turn, donated them to the University of Illinois Archives (Both letters in folder 1).

Contact sheets and corresponding negative strips (most are in sleeves stapled onto each contact sheet) are still in two donated and one new binders as this protects the currently stapled-on sleeves (to be replaced in the future). Original binder labels do not necessarily reflect what is inside the binder, i.e. some contact sheets (+ negatives) are missing. Sheard's content descriptions are on the backside of contact sheets. Negative sleeves will have to be replaced with archival ones at some point in the future.

Box 17:

1. Letter from Sheard to Sandy (Sandra Marsh) giving his photographs, negatives, and contact sheets to her with his permission to use them at no cost but asking her to credit his work, in 1968. Letter/note from Sandra McWorter Marsh signing over rights and photographs, negatives, contact sheets, and poster to her brother Gerald McWorter on August 14, 2020.
2. Original binder with contacts sheets and corresponding negative strips (in sleeves stapled onto each contact sheet) of living conditions, rally, march events, and people in Marks, MS; and people, living conditions, a rally, march events, and a Martin Luther King, Jr. dedication (Lorraine Motel) in Memphis, TN, 1968
   Contains roughly 722 images (with an average of 38 images per contact sheet and 19 contact sheets in the folder). Original binder labeled Marks, Miss.

33. Illinois Council for Black Studies (ICBS), 1979
    The Illinois Council for Black Studies (ICBS) was founded in October 1979 during a conference at the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign. The founding members were Ronald Bailey, who also served as Executive Director, and Gerald McWorter, who was also Chair and President from 1980-1984. ICBS had connections with the National Council for Black Studies (NCBS) but was not formally affiliated. In 1985, Carol L. Adams, who had previous connections with both Peoples College and McWorter, was elected President of ICBS in 1985, but the organization faded away after McWorter resigned from NCBS in 1984.
    ICBS hosted several conferences, many of which were focused on political topics as opposed to topics in Black studies. These conferences were developed primarily by the Chicago Center for African American Studies and Research (CCAASR), which was a branch of Peoples College; for this reason, material relating to these conferences can be found in Peoples College > CCAASR.

49. National Council for Black Studies (NCBS), 1979
    The National Council for Black Studies (NCBS) was founded in 1976, with Dr. Joseph Russell of Indiana University serving as first Executive Director from 1976-1986. McWorter joined the NCBS in 1980 and served as a member of the Executive Board from 1980-1984. In 1982, McWorter ran against T. K. Daniels for the position of vice-chairperson (the vice-chairperson becomes the chairperson after 2 years). The election was held on March 18, 1982, at the executive board meeting during NCBS's 6th Annual Conference. This 6th conference was organized McWorter at the University of Illinois Chicago campus, largely in his capacity as Chair of the Illinois Council for Black Studies (ICBS). In the July 1982 Executive Board meeting minutes (see below), former chairperson William E. Nelson writes a scathing critique of the 6th Annual Conference, indicating that the ICBS took full control over the planning while publicly disparaging the NCBS as an organization. Nelson's statement also asserts that the 1982 Executive Board election was rigged, with members of Peoples College (PC) and Study & Struggle (a student group led by PC) signing up as new members at the conference and casting votes for McWorter. This was apparently a practice not permitted by the NCBS By-Laws, which required votes to be cast by established members. March 1982 correspondence between Ronald Bailey and Nelson confirms that there was some ambiguity surrounding voting eligibility for newly-registered NCBS members. See Box 28, Folder 49: "National Council for Black Studies (NCBS) – Executive Board, 1982."
    The original election results were ratified by the Executive Board at its July 1982 meeting in Princeton, NJ. McWorter remained on the executive board in 1983 while NCBS made changes to its constitution and by-laws, which were passed at the July 1983 Annual Meeting at Berkeley, CA. This resulted in the ratification of documents which changed the procedure for election of Executive Board positions, applied retroactively to the 1982 elected positions
    On February 28, 1984, McWorter resigned as the Vice-Chairperson of NCBS, citing an illegal election in 1984 which aimed to overturn the results of the March 1982 election. In the 1984 election, McWorter received one vote for the position as chair of NCBS.

Ronald William Bailey, 1969-2012

Arrangement: Ronald Bailey's CVs are listed first; records arranged chronologically thereafter.

This series contains some of Ronald William Bailey's publications, course materials, reports, research and grant proposals, and correspondence. Bailey taught at Cornell University (1975-1976), the University of Mississippi (1983-1989), and Northeastern University (1989-1995).

Bailey compiled many of the archived research and reference files and worked on many projects with McWorter. Materials collected/created by Ronald Bailey can be found throughout the McWorter Papers. Over the decades McWorter had preserved Bailey's materials as part of Peoples College for example or projects they had worked on together. Bailey's materials, therefore, became intermingled with McWorter's files (frequently at the item level) and their original order could not be re-established.

For Bailey's materials see e.g. Series 6: Peoples College, which includes files related to its Chicago Center for Afro-American Studies and Research (CCAASR) and the Illinois Council for Black Studies (ICBS). Bailey held leadership positions in both groups. Series 6 also contains Bailey's writings on Marxist-Leninist ideology and his involvement with the October 1st (first) Collective. Additional Bailey materials, such as grant proposals and correspondence, can be found in Series 4: Black Studies – McWorter's Faculty Positions; Series

5: African Liberation, and Series 13: Subject Files and Literature.

Ronald Bailey (1948-) met Gerald McWorter in Africa in the summer of 1971 and this meeting began their decades long collaboration. They were both leading members of Peoples College, a Marxist-Leninist revolutionary cooperative, as well as members in numerous other organizations including ALSC (African Liberation Support Committee). They worked on many projects and grants together and were two of the three faculty teaching a course whose course syllabi became the first, very short, edition of Introduction to African American Studies. This first 'edition' or course syllabi was for a course titled "Modern Culture and Black People," team-taught at Fisk University in fall 1973 by Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter), Ronald Bailey, and Joseph Seward. Bailey and McWorter assisted each other in obtaining faculty position at several universities and published together. Many of Bailey's and McWorter's early publications were published by PC and its bookstores, as well as PC related entities such as the PC journal, Afro-Scholar, by PC's Chicago Center for Afro-American Studies and Research of which Bailey was a co-founder (next to McWorter) and first executive director.

Ron Bailey's "A Statement to Comrades of Peoples College," (dated June 17, 1974) in Series 6: Box 70, folder 33 includes an analysis of his upbringing and political development from studying Russian and Communism, to engaging in Pan-Africanism, Black Power, Cuba, and African and Black Liberation. It also touches upon his first contact with Peoples College in Africa in 1971, and involvement in many of the same organizations as McWorter. Bailey here also discusses how he developed the Nairobi Collective in September 1972 modeled after PC and PC internal and external movements conflicts among other topics.

For a brief 2022 online profile of Professor Emeritus, Ronald William Bailey see University of Illinois, Department of African American Studies, Ronald William Bailey, https://afro.illinois.edu/directory/profile/rwbailey (accessed September 8, 2026).

Box 40:

University Black Studies Programs

Arranged alphabetically by state name.

Contains research and survey material compiled for surveys of black studies programs in the USA, mostly collected by Ronald Bailey, Glen Jordan, and some by McWorter. McWorter's files were largely compiled by MW's students for the Illinois Documentary History of Black Studies in the 2000s, see below. Folders about specific Black Studies programs contain correspondence with McWorter and others on the project, surveys, student newspapers, course listings/catalogs, faculty listings, course syllabi, informational brochures, and other materials at that university.

The archives kept original documentation of black studies programs. Printouts of internet sites were discarded because they are widely available elsewhere.

California

Arranged chronologically into 3 projects.

Files are largely from Ron Bailey who was integral to the Center for Black Studies (CBS)'s bibliographical projects on Black Studies in California. Bailey earned his PhD from Stanford University in 1980. He worked as a dissertation fellow at CBS, University of California Santa Barbara (UCSB), from 1976-1977. The CBS was effectively run by Peoples College (PC) during that year when McWorter served as head of the CBS while working as visiting professor at UCSB.

Illinois

Arranged into 2 groupings: (1) Illinois Universities (arranged alphabetically), and (2) 2000s Black Studies Survey Project (arranged alphabetically).

Both McWorter and Bailey conducted several projects on Black Studies as members of PC, ICBS, and NCBS. These included e.g. developing a Black Studies curriculum (various editions of Introduction to Afro-American Studies) and surveys of Black Studies programs in Illinois and the United States. These projects were funded by several grants, including grants from the IBHE, FIPSE, NEH, etc. in the 1980s (see files in this series).

Volumes of the Illinois Documentary History of Black Studies (https://www.ideals.illinois.edu/collections/715, accessed September 2, 2026) were compiled by students in 2010 and 2023.

Series 5: African Liberation, 1948-2021

Arranged into 6 sections: (1) Posters and Fabric Banner, (2) General African Literature and Record Creators, (3) Individual African Countries, (4) Portuguese Colonies in Africa, (5) International African Liberation Support Groups, and (6) African Liberation Support Committee (ALSC).

Note: in this series the appraising archivist kept some contemporary African tourist materials. These document how mainstream depictions of Africa tried to appeal to international audiences pre/post-African liberation. The archivist also kept some of McWorter's historical United States maps and atlases of Africa and South America reflecting/documenting the country's perspective at the point of publication. Widely available secondary sources such as US mainstream publications, US mainstream newspapers, and US State Department publications were not included in the collection.

Members of Peoples College (PC), McWorter, Ronald Bailey and others compiled and acquired these materials as reference files, research files, documenting their connections to/membership in various organizations (especially the African Liberation Support Committee), and because PC bookstores sold African Liberation (grey) literature.

Box 50:

General African Literature and Record Creators

Arranged into 4 sections: (1) Maps of Africa, (2) General African Grey Literature, (3) Pan-African Record Creators, (4) Regional African Grey Literature & Record Creators.

Grey literature, literature, ephemera, secondary sources, etc. are relatively well-defined terms. Because McWorter collected all kinds of materials and usually kept them together regardless of type, we faced the dilemma of what term to use when describing them. And we did not want to separate them out by type unless they were kept that way. We therefore use the term 'grey literature' loosely, to refer to all kinds of materials.

Maps of Africa

Arranged chronologically.

This section includes some of McWorter's historical United States maps and atlases of Africa and South America reflecting/documenting the country's perspective at the point of publication. Includes map of Political Freedom in Independent Africa, historical maps including maps of global resources, picture atlases, and a school atlas.

Africa – Individual Countries

Arranged alphabetically by country name. Under a country there are sections for (1) Pre-Liberation and (2) Post-Liberation materials (where applicable) which are based on a country's liberation date.
Pre/Post-Liberation materials may include (a) Grey Literature (sorted chronologically), (b) Record Creators (sorted alphabetically by name and chronologically thereunder), and (c) International Support Groups/Printed Materials on that country (sorted alphabetically by group name and chronologically thereunder).

Materials from former Portuguese colonies (Angola, Guinea-Bissau, Mozambique) are listed after all other African countries. The colonies represented a particular historical case, and McWorter and his colleagues maintained these files separately.

Liberation dates for individual countries were sourced from Britannica in 2025: Britannica. "List of African Countries' Independence Dates." https://www.britannica.com/topic/list-of-African-Countries-Independence-Dates (Accessed September 9, 2026).

W.E.B. Du Bois

Encyclopedia Africana Project (EAP) and W. E. B. Du Bois Memorial Centre for Pan African Culture
Arranged chronologically.

The material in this section relates to the 1960s endeavor (Dr. W.E.B. Du Bois. "A Proposed Encyclopaedia Africana," Accra, Ghana: EAP, 1962).

With roots going back to 1909, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana requested in 1962 that Du Bois take up the Encyclopedia Africana Project once again. The 1960s Encyclopaedia Africana Project began in Accra, Ghana with the 1962 establishment of the Secretariat for an Encyclopedia Africana. It was directed by W. E. B. Du Bois and sponsored by the Ghana Academy of Sciences, with funding provided by the Government of Ghana under President Kwame Nkrumah and the Organization of African Unity (OAU) ("Encyclopaedia Africana Project at a Glance," Accra, Ghana: Encyclopaedia Africana Project, June 1997). The secretariat's stated goal was to "plan, guide, and co-ordinate the work of assembling, organizing, and publishing materials for an Encyclopedia Africana that is authentically African in its point of view and at the same time a product of scientific scholarship" (For Cooperation Toward an Encyclopedia Africana Information Report No. 1, page 2.). By 1967, with both Du Bois (died 1963) and Nkrumah no longer involved, government funding dried up, and the 1960s version of the Encyclopedia was never completed. In 2003, the Secretariat initiated another attempt to revive the project ("Encyclopaedia Africana Project: Facts and Functions," Accra, Ghana: EA), 2003).

Historical background: in 1909, Du Bois had begun work on an Encyclopedia Africana Project while at the Negro University in Atlanta, Georgia, but he was unable to obtain the necessary funds to realize it. In 1934 the next attempt was called "Encyclopedia of the Negro" with obtained some funding from the Phelps Stokes Fund. Again, funds were insufficient to complete it.

Note: the spelling of Du Bois has been standardized in the finding aid, though some of the historical materials use the variation "Dubois." Both "Encyclopedia" and "Encyclopaedia" are used throughout the material for the Encyclopedia Africana. Folder titles reflect the spelling used in the historical documents.

Africa Information Service (AIS) (New York, NY)

The Africa Information Service was a Black Alternative Peace Corps program which participated in the Black Liberation Movement at the 7th Pan African Congress. Students returning from the Peace Corps founded regional groups in the United States. When the Africa Research Group (ARG) was disbanded, the organization's "files and library" were turned over to the AIS (AIS Statement, December 1, 1972).

African Liberation Support Committee (ALSC)

Arranged into 7 sections: (1) Posters & Fabric Banner, (2) Photos & Flyers, (3) ALSC National Organization, (4) Regional ALSC Chapters, (5) US State ALSC Chapters, (6) International ALSC Chapters, and (7) Non-ALSC Print Materials.

According to McWorter (emails and conversations 2022-2025), he was ALSC's national executive director, its head of research and development, and chair of the Nashville committee from 1972-1975. ALSC had about 1,000 members in about 50 chapters. 90%+ of its members were African American. Materials related to Organizing Committee for a New ALSC (OC-ALSC) are found below. OC-ALSC consisted of members splitting from the Revolutionary Workers League (RWL) and the Revolutionary Communist Party (RCP) and separated from ALSC in 1976/1977. For McWorter's leadership positions and materials related to RWL and RCP see Series 8.
For additional, partially related, notebooks, calendars, and diaries, see Series 9.

Organizing Committee for a New ALSC (OC-ALSC/NC-ALSC) (Chicago, IL)

Arranged chronologically.
The OC-ALSC was comprised of members who split from the Revolutionary Workers League (RWL). The group was originally called the Organizing Committee for a New ALSC (OC-ALSC) but later changed their name to the Chicago Committee for a Free Africa (CCFA) and then to the New Chicago African Liberation Support Committee (NC-ALSC).

Note: text documenting the relationship between ALSC and OC-ASLC at the time when OC-ALSC's was formed can be found on a 1978 flyer for African Liberation Day, see Box 67, Folder 6: "African Liberation Day – Flyer, 1978."

It reads: "Warning: There is a recently formed group which calls itself "The Organizing Committee for a New ALSC" or "New ALSC." ALSC should in no way be confused with this group. As is well-known, ALSC has historically worked with many groups and individuals in support of the liberation struggles in Africa and in struggles against oppression and exploitation in the US. This is reflected in our current role and participation in the N.C. Coalition to Free the Wilmington Ten, and the National Coalition to Support African Liberation. Both of these coalitions are made up of groups and individuals from many political persuasions. We think that it is not only wrong, but incredible that the so-called "New ALSC" has chosen to use our name. This can serve no other purpose than confusion and temporary division among the people. For those who seek further clarity, we are available to go deeper into this."

Nashville African Liberation Committee (NALC)

Arrangement: Photographs are listed first; folders arranged chronologically thereafter.

The Nashville African Liberation Committee (NALC) was based at the Afro-American Studies Center at Fisk University, Nashville, and supported African liberation struggles in Southern Africa. NALC was apparently formed in late 1972 or early 1973 (Source: M.A.C.S.A. News, Number 26, (Madison Area Committee on Southern Africa), May 1973. Found in African Activist Archives, Michigan State University Libraries. https://africanactivist.msu.edu/organization/210-813-421/, (Accessed September 9, 2026).

According to McWorter (emails and conversations 2022-20250, he and Peoples College had organized NALC as a coalition of groups and individuals interested in African Liberation. Originally a broad-based group, it included members from Meharry Medical College. Its membership consisted of about 15 African American and white individuals. members. When NALC joined ALSC, its membership became increasingly African American, and the group became part of the Black Liberation Movement. At that point Meharry Medical College and other members left the group.

Series 6: Peoples College (PC), circa 1950-2017

Arranged into 9 sections: (1) Posters, (2) Core/Governing Documents, (3) Educational Materials, (4) Maryemma Graham, (5) Introduction to Afro American Studies Textbook, (6) Publications, (7) Projects, (8) General, and (9) Topics. All sections are arranged chronologically thereunder, except for Topics, which are arranged alphabetically.

Peoples College was a Marxist-Leninist revolutionary political collective originally founded by Gerald McWorter, his sister Sandra McWorter Marsh (Aysha), and others in 1970, based on a former collective begun at Fisk University in Nashville, TN in the 1940s. To differentiate the two, McWorter explained in 2017: "In the early 1970s PC folks would say that the first Peoples College (under Johnson) taught people how to read, we're teaching people what to read" in: Richard D. Benson II. "Black Power, Education, and the History of the Peoples College." Black Perspectives (African American Intellectual History Society), 2017.

The original Fisk Peoples College was founded by Charles Johnson, the first African American president of Fisk University, as a community extension in the 1930s and 1940s. It reflected similar programs in Europe that had started in the late 19th century and offered people's college courses/seminars geared to the general public. Johnson's program organized students and faculty to teach literacy, home economics, and other essential subjects to the wider community. The early Fisk Peoples College acted as an alternative to formal education and consisted of around 10 people providing programs to about 50 people.

Gerald McWorter and others established an iteration of Peoples College in Nashville, TN, in 1970 as a "radical Black Marxist-Leninist organization dedicated to an anti-imperialist and anti-racist struggle program of political education and activism" (Richard D. Benson II, 2017). Comprised of students and faculty, this group was set up as a political committee/collective with a Marxist ideological orientation within the Black Liberation Movement. The group petered out in the second half of the 1980s and dissolved by 1992. Members of PC's Political Committee (eventually called PC2) included among others Gerald McWorter, Maryemma Graham (MEG), and Julialynn Walker (JW).

Sandra McWorter Marsh (Aysha) was PC's main office and business manager and manager of Peoples College Press in Chicago. While living in California, she represented PC especially with the Ethiopian student movement and the New Communist Movement and ran their California office/store. For a short time in the late 1970s and early 1980s, she had an office unofficially at the Afro-American Studies Program (University of Illinois) and organized PC affairs and projects from there. The U of I eventually asked Gerald McWorter to resign his position and closed the office space - partially because PC members had used space and resources for non-university and activist projects.

Among significant PC projects are PC curriculum (teaching and print materials), the textbook Introduction to Afro-American Studies: A Peoples College Primer, bookstores (including Timbuktu Market of New Africa & Twenty-First Century Books and Publications), the Peoples College Press, and the Study & Struggle student mobilization. PC also served as the Research and Development Committee for ALSC.

Significant individuals abbreviated throughout the records include Abdul Alkalimat (AA) (Gerald McWorter), Andrievia Fulford-Gills (AFG), Doug Gills (DG), Julialynn Walker (JW), Joyce Searcy (JS), and Maryemma Graham (MEG). Walter and Joyce Searcy, two of McWorter's former students, deposited some of the PC Archives with Fisk University (based on McWorter' recollection shared in emails and conversations with the archivist from 2022-2025).

Doug Gills was a former student at Northwestern who founded Study & Struggle. After working with McWorter on several projects and publications, he resigned as a member of PC in 1983, though a response to the resignation was not written until 1987. After resigning, he worked for Kenwood Oakland Community Organization (KOCO), which collaborated with Timbuktu on events relating to African Liberation. Material on Doug Gills can be found in (2) Core/Governing Documents, (6) Publications, (7) Projects – Study & Struggle, and (8) General.

Processing note: Where files were not dated, an approximate (circa) date has been included. Files without a definitive or approximate date are listed as "undated."

For additional notebooks, calendars, and diaries with information pertaining to PC, see Series 9.
See Series 16 for a three-dimensional logo sculpture of "Peoples College" carved out of industrial sandstone by Mr. Imagination (Gregory Warmack) in the early 1980s. Careful when handling; stone is deteriorating, leaving sandy residue.

Introduction to Afro American Studies Textbook

Arranged by edition number, chronologically thereunder. Where dates coincide, the final edition of Intro is listed first, and supporting/preparatory material after.

"Introduction to Afro-American Studies" (it had different titles, authors and format over the years) was one of the earliest textbooks on Black Studies, authored by Peoples College members (including Gerald McWorter and Ronald Bailey) between 1973-1992. The 1st Edition was the course syllabi for a course titled "Modern Culture and Black People," team-taught at Fisk University by Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter), Ronald Bailey, and Joseph Seward. With each successive version, the content developed. The 2nd Edition, the first in which PC claimed authorship, was a "Course Syllabus and Guide for Study Groups" with chapter introductions, study questions, and lists of required and supplementary readings. The 3rd Edition was much the same, with the addition of Adinkra Symbolism images and a chapter on Black Women. In 1984 MW and Bailey retroactively identified themselves as the primary authors of the first three editions of the course syllabi plus PC members and no longer mention Professor Seward as co-originator and author. In: Gerald A. McWorter and Ronald Bailey, "Black Studies Curriculum Development in the 1980s: Its Patterns and History." The Black Scholar Vol 15, No. 2, March-April 1984, pp. 18-31. https://www-jstor-org.proxy2.library.illinois.edu/stable/pdf/41067080.

The 4th Edition was a major 2-volume expansion, with extended chapters and the full text of all required secondary literature readings. As part of this edition, a separate Teacher's Guide and separate exam questions were also made available for teachers using the primer in their courses. PC obtained slides for each chapter in this anthology, most likely used by McWorter and Bailey in their classes. The 5th Edition, funded by a FIPSE (Fund for the Improvement of Post Secondary Education) grant, represented a major revision of the text; and the full text of secondary literature was no longer printed in the textbook. The 6th Edition is the same as the 5th but for the addition of an index. The planned 7th Edition never happened. In 2002 an eBook version of the 6th Edition was posted online by the University of Toledo Africana Studies Department in 2002 and is sometimes referred to as 7th edition. The fourth, fifth, and sixth editions identify the authors in their preface or on their cover.
Retroactively, all 6 (published) editions were called "Intro," a title to which was added the color of the cover page.

For material on the production and distribution of the Intro textbook, see Series 6: Peoples College –

Projects – Introduction to Afro American Studies. For related course material, see Series 4: Black Studies – McWorter's Faculty Positions.

First Edition (known as "Intro White"): No authors listed, three versions. 1973/1974.

Course syllabus including an introduction, a course outline, and lists of required and supplementary readings for each lecture.
For additional information on Joseph Seward, one of the original co-teachers for the class, see Series 17 and: Quinta R. Seward. "Tracing My Father's Footprints: Embracing a Legacy." 18. First Version (Fall 1973): "Modern Culture and Black People. Part of Freshman Interdisciplinary Program. Taught by Afro-American Studies Program, Brother Professor McWorter [4 sessions], Brother Professor Bailey [5 sessions], Brother Professor Seward [5 sessions], Fisk University. Course designed by Peoples College," Fall 1973
    Various drafts of the syllabus, final exam questions and an outline for teaching three weeks of 'reconstruction' as part of the course.
19. First Version (Fall 1973): Class Student Papers, Fall 1973 RESTRICTED (Folder 1 of 3)
    Contains student papers written for the course, including final grades.
20. First Version (Fall 1973): Class Student Papers, Fall 1973 RESTRICTED (Folder 2 of 3)
    Contains student papers written for the course, including final grades.
21. First Version (Fall 1973): Class Student Papers, Fall 1973 RESTRICTED (Folder 3 of 3)
    Contains student papers written for the course, including final grades.
22. First Version (Fall 1973/Spring 1974): "Modern Culture and Black People. Taught by Afro-American Studies Program, Fisk University. Course designed by Peoples College," Fall 1973/Spring 1974
    Final version of the syllabus, final exam questions, an outline for teaching three weeks of 'reconstruction' as part of the course, and memos to students regarding "The road ahead in Modern Culture and Black People" and "Problems raised by students in modern culture."
    This syllabus and supporting material was reproduced from: Peoples College (ed). "An Evolving Program for Black Studies Curriculum Development, 1972-1982: A Ten-Year Documentary History of Introduction to Afro-American Studies and Other Related Activity of Peoples College." (Chicago, IL: Peoples College), 1982.
23. First Version (Fall 1973/Spring 1974): "Modern Culture and Black People." – Draft Syllabi, Correspondence with the Dean, and Supplementary Course Materials/Events, 1973-1974 (Sideways in box)
24. First Version (Fall 1973/Spring 1974): "Modern Culture and Black People." – Student, 1973-1974 RESTRICTED
25. Second Version (Spring 1974): "Modern Culture and Black People. Taught by Afro-American Studies Program, Fisk University. Course designed by Peoples College," Spring 1974
    Syllabus, correspondence regarding planning the second semester of the course, and sample exam questions.
26. Second Version and First Version (Fall 1973/Spring 1974): Correspondence from Joseph (Joe) Seward, May 1974
    In the letter, Seward indicates that he left Nashville for Atlanta on African Liberation Day and sends his "best regards… despite our inability to work together."

27. Third Version (Fall 1974, fragment): "Modern Culture and Black People, Outline #1," Fall 1974
    Partial draft outline of syllabus and part of a lesson on monopoly.
28. Third Version (Fall 1974): Class Student Papers, Fall 1974 RESTRICTED
    Contains index cards with information on students (including their name, hometown, major, other courses on Black history they have taken, and the best book they have read about Black people) and student papers written for the class.

Second Edition ("Intro Brown"): No authors listed. Spring 1975.

The syllabus turned into a "course outline and guide for study groups" (source: title page). Each course section includes an introduction and lists of key concepts, required readings, supplementary readings, and resource guide.

    Completed student information forms collected as part of McWorter's Fall 1975 Black Studies 101 course.
33. "Introduction to Afro American Studies: A Course Outline – Guide for Study Groups." (Preliminary Draft) (Nashville, TN: Peoples College Press), 1975

Box 73:

Third Edition ("Intro Green"): No authors listed. 1975.

Course outline/study guide format remained the same. Adinkra Symbolism illustrations, data tables and a chapter on Black women were added.

1. "Introduction to Afro American Studies." (Chicago, IL: Peoples College Press), 1975
2. "Intro" Courses by Others, 1976
3. Gerald A. McWorter and Ronald Bailey. "Black Studies Curriculum Development in the 1980s: Its Patterns and History." The Black Scholar Vol. 15, No. 2, pages 18-31, March-April 1984

Fourth Edition – Experimental Fourth Edition ("Intro Blue"): Authors identified as Peoples College Editorial Collective. 1977/1978.

This edition only exists as Experimental Fourth Edition. Text was expanded into a two-volume, nearly 900-page anthology consisting mostly of secondary literature. Major changes included an extended overview for each chapter (plus study questions, key concepts), required and supplemental readings, and the typical lists of resources. The full text of each required reading was reproduced here. A separate Teacher's Guide and final examination questions were also made available to teachers. Faculty teaching Afro American studies courses elsewhere had been asked to share their course syllabi and reading lists with the authors in preparation for this edition. PC obtained slides for each chapter in this anthology, most likely used by McWorter and Bailey. While slides have not survived, see below for lists of them.

For transcribed lectures using these slides, see Series 4: Black Studies – McWorter's Faculty Positions – University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign: Folders 42-45 and 55: Introduction to Afro-American Studies –

Fifth Edition (Intro FIPSE): Part of a FIPSE grant titled "Curriculum Development in Afro-American Studies." 1984.

The introduction to the Fifth Edition acknowledges contributions by many individuals, including: Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter), Ronald Bailey, Maryemma Graham, Kina McAfee, Aysha (Sandra McWorter Marsh), Jane Mohraz (ed), plus contributions by co-teachers (Johnetta Jones, Warren Swindell, Carol Adams, Diana Slaughter, Ismay Ashford, Charles Evans, Harold Rogers, Daryl Thomas, David Johnson). It is the first edition which lists Abdul Alkalimat and Associates as authors. This edition was supported by a grant from FIPSE (Fund for the Improvement of Post Secondary Education).
The 5th edition is a textbook of 17 narrative chapters which frame and comment on extensive quotations of secondary literature; complete reproductions of secondary texts are no longer included. The edition still includes key concepts, study questions, and resources.

For additional information on this edition, see advertisements and order forms for "Introduction to Afro-American Studies: A Peoples College Primer (5th Edition)" in Series 6: Peoples College – Projects – Introduction to Afro-American Studies and material from the application and work on the FIPSE grant titled "Curriculum Development in Afro-American Studies" in Series 4: Black Studies – McWorter's Faculty Positions – University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign (UIUC).

16. Correspondence – William R. Jones, January 24, 1980
    Articles by William R. Jones and his notes on the rationale for a core curriculum in Black studies.
17. Correspondence – Russell L. Adams, August 28, 1982
    A letter from Adams to Ron Bailey, reviewing the strengths and weaknesses of "Intro Blue" in preparation for the next edition.
18. Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter). "The Curriculum: A Response to Institute of the Black World." (Article), 1982
    This article was written in response to the Institute of the Black World's (IBW) "Black Studies Curriculum Development Course Evaluations." The article discusses the history, current trends, and paradigms of Black Studies curricula developed at the IBW, Chicago Center for Afro-American Studies, Five College Black Studies Program, and the University of Illinois.
19. NEH (National Endowment for the Humanities) Paradigm Discussion, circa 1984
    This folder contains the text of a workshop led by Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter) on a paradigm for Black Studies funded by the NEH, including the transcribed text of a question and answer session following the workshop.
20. Abdul Alkalimat and Associates. "Introduction to Afro-American Studies: A Peoples College Primer." (Fifth Edition) (Urbana, IL: University of Illinois), 1984

Sixth Edition (Intro Red): Peoples College. 1986.

The 6th edition is identical to the Fifth Edition except that an index was added. The preface with acknowledgements of contributions changed slightly, FIPSE grant officers are no longer mentioned.
In 2002, the Sixth Edition was converted into an eBook by the Africana Studies Program at the University of Toledo (Archived link, April 25, 2024: https://web.archive.org/web/20240425014708/https://www.alkalimat.org/eblackstudies/intro/contents.htm).

26. Reviews of Introduction to Afro-American Studies: A Peoples College Primer, 1989-1990
    Reviews of chapters of Intro written by Jeanne P. Laurel (September 1989), Aya de Leon (October 1990), and Julie S. Doar (October 1990).

Seventh Edition (Planning For): Never printed. Circa 1991-92/2002.

According to the May 1991 Intro-to-Afro News newsletter, the Cooperative Research Network (CRN) [a Peoples College Project] and the Department of African American Studies at Northeastern University (including Maryemma Graham, Ronald Bailey, and Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter)) led a workshop on curriculum development on April 28-29, 1991, to launch the publication process of the 7th edition of -Intro. The anticipated publication date was Fall 1992.[1]

The planned 7th Edition never happened. In 2002 an eBook version of the 6th Edition was posted online by the University of Toledo Africana Studies Department in 2002 and is sometimes referred to as 7th edition. (Archived link, April 25, 2024:

Projects

Arranged alphabetically by project name and chronologically thereunder; arrangement principles are slightly different for Bookstores – Timbuktu and Chicago Center for Afro-American Studies and Research (CCAASR).

Peoples College participated in each of these projects in different capacities. Some projects were run, initiated, organized, funded, or published by PC; in some projects, PC was just a participating organization or sent a representative to participate. Additional details on PC's involvement in a particular project can be found in the files below.

African Liberation Day - African Liberation Support Committee Research & Development

Arranged chronologically.

Peoples College collaborated with the African Liberation Support Committee, especially in Nashville and Chicago, on African Liberation and African Liberation Day. Peoples College also served as the Research and Development arm of the ALSC. Additional material relating to these projects can be found in Series 5: African Liberation – African Liberation Support Committee.

32. SAPES (Southern Africa Political Economy Series) Diaspora Project, 1994
33. Friends of Zimbabwe – Attendance Record, undated
    According to McWorter, Peoples College took part in major events and campaigns in Zimbabwe. PC worked more closely with ZANU (which leaned ideologically towards China and Maoist principles) than with ZAPU (which leaned towards USSR and Marxist-Leninist ideology).

Afro Scholar Newsletter

Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter) was an editor of the Afro Scholar, which he initiated while at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Starting in fall 1985, the Afro Scholar Newsletter became a Cooperative Research Network publication (CRN, a PC program), was based in Chicago, and no longer affiliated with the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign. In the academic year 1985-86, the newsletter was hosted and published by the Afro-American Studies program at the University of Mississippi, where two of the editors, Ronald Bailey and Maryemma Graham, were based at the time.

There is a gap in publication between Fall 1987 and Fall 1991. When publication resumes in 1991, an editor's note indicates that the CRN had moved to the Department of African-American Studies at Northeastern University in Boston, where McWorter was working at the time.

All issues in the set are listed below, along with the publisher and place of publication in parentheses, including the Afro-American Studies and Research Program of the University of Illinois (AASRP), the Cooperative Research Network in Black Studies (CRN/PC), and Twenty-First Century Books (TCB/PC).

Black Churches and Pastors in the Chicago Area - Survey, circa 1983.

McWorter does not recall who had started this survey, for what reason, and why it was never completed. It may have been a project of his aunt Thelma McWorter Kirkpatrick Wheaton who was very active in various Chicago Black churches. It was possibly connected to a People's College project. Records consist of alphabetically arranged cards listing pastors in black churches located in Chicago and surrounding areas. The project apparently intended to study income/donation, membership numbers and evaluations from 1980 to 1983 of pastors and churches -- represented by a smaller number of additional cards that were only partially filled out. It's unclear why a few libraries and black studies programs were included.
Card box includes 2 sections:

1. A-Z (pastors/ministers mostly from Chicago, IL), circa 1983
2. Survey/Evaluation of Black Pastors/Churches, circa 1983
    - Ys [listing YMCAs]
    - Black Studies

Black Liberation Month (BLM)

Arranged chronologically.

Carter G. Woodson started Negro History Week in 1926. For his life see Harvard & the Legacy of Slavery Initiative, Carter G. Woodson (class of 1912), https://legacyofslavery.harvard.edu/legacy-of-leadership/carter-g-woodson/ (accessed September 8, 2026). With the Black Power Movement in the 1960s, Negro History Week eventually became Black History Month. According to McWorter (emails and conversations 2022-2025), Peoples College took up the question of "history for what?" in the 1970s and concluded that the answer should be "liberation." This led to the PC publication Black Liberation Month News.

Bookstores – Timbuktu

This section contains materials relating to the Timbuktu bookstores, arranged chronologically, with photographs listed first. Subsequently, individual locations of the People's College Timbuktu bookstores are listed chronologically in order of their first opening dates.

The Timbuktu bookstores were a major project of PC. The first one opened in Atlanta, GA (1969), with additional stores opening in Nashville, TN (1971), Riverside, CA (1971), and Chicago, IL (1979). The Atlanta bookstore opened before PC was formed, though there are conflicting records as to whether it was opened by Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter) or Ebon Dooley. Over the years, the bookstores sold books, pamphlets, newspapers, jewelry, clothing, soaps, and other items relating to Black and African heritage, and were often the only bookstores serving a Black audience or those interested in Black issues in their respective locales.

Bookstores – Twenty First Century Books and Publications (TCB)

Arrangement: Photographs are listed first; folders are arranged chronologically thereafter.

The bookstore opened in October 1987, but TCB Publications was printing and distributing the Introduction to Afro-American Studies Primer with a PO box address as early as 1986.

Location: 607 E Muddy Waters Drive, Chicago. PC had purchased the building from Theresa Needham. It was previously known as "Theresa's Lounge" at 607 E 43rd St, a significant site for Chicago's blues history but which closed in 1983. Some advertisements for a show at the lounge can be found in Series 13: Subject Files and Literature Box 140, Folder 17: Culture – United States – Illinois – Chicago – Theresa's Lounge
The street was designated as honorary "Muddy Waters Drive" sometime between 1983 and 1987. Precise date of that honorary name is unclear but the opening flyer for TCB lists the address as "Muddy Waters Drive;"in: Peoples College, Twenty-First Century Books Grand Opening (Flyer), listing events for September 24th and October 24th, 1987,

Topics

Arranged alphabetically into Topics. Within each topic, folders are arranged chronologically.

Topics files were kept by various PC members, especially Sandra McWorter Marsh (many of the Central/Latin American files) and Ronald Bailey (many of the Africa files). Research files were kept for various projects and publications. Materials sent to PC or its bookstores were also maintained as files. Additional materials documented relationships to many of the political parties and African liberation groups that McWorter, PC, and its members were part of or in contact with. When possible, such files were moved to the respective record creators and series.

Typical of the 1960s-1980s left movements usually subsumed women issues under what they considered more important/overarching class and race politics. Therefore, very little historical materials in the McWorter Papers relate directly to women, their positions, and issues at the time. Female PC members including Sandra McWorter Marsh but also her aunt Thelma Elise McWorter Kirkpatrick Wheaton assembled a small number of materials about women that survived in one filing cabinet drawer (listed below). Materials collected or created by Sandra McWorter Marsh and their aunt Thelma Elise McWorter Kirkpatrick Wheaton can be found throughout many of the series in McWorter's Papers; some can be identified e.g. through their mailing labels.

Thelma Elise McWorter Kirkpatrick Wheaton

Thelma Elise McWorter was born 29-Jul-1906 in Barry, Illinois, and was the older sister of Gerald McWorter's father. She married Allen Kirkpatrick circa 1939; after his death in 1948 she eventually married William Wheaton. Thelma died 24 May 2001 in Prairie View, Texas, and is buried in Mount Greenwood Cemetery, Chicago, Illinois.

Thelma McWorter Kirkpatrick Wheaton was at the forefront of organizing black women, she was a cultural and political activist, a public-school teacher (Chicago), and she was involved in the civil rights movement, African and Black Liberation movements, churches and many social justice groups. Thelma worked her way through college at Fisk University (1929) and received a Master of Arts in social work at Case Western. In the 1930s and while working for the YMCA, she was active in Chicago black community institutions and organized black women workers. She became a public-school teacher in Chicago until her retirement in 1972. Thelma (co-) founded the South Side Community Art Center (SSCAC) and was president of the Illinois Housewives Association during WWII. As cultural activist she helped shape the DuSable Museum of African-American History, was active in churches, African liberation and civil rights movements and many social justice groups. For more (and contradictory) biographical information and Thelma's papers see: Darlene Clark Hine et al, The Black Women in the Middle West Project: A Comprehensive Resource Guide Illinois and Indiana (Indianapolis: Indiana 1986).

Women

Arranged alphabetically by sub-topic; chronologically thereunder.

Typical of the 1960s-1980s left movements usually subsumed women issues under what they considered more important/overarching class and race politics. Therefore, very little historical materials in the McWorter papers relate directly to women, their positions, and issues at the time. Female PC members including Sandra McWorter Marsh but also her aunt Thelma Elise McWorter Kirkpatrick Wheaton assembled a small number of materials about women that survived in one filing cabinet drawer (listed below). Materials collected or created by Sandra McWorter Marsh and their aunt Thelma Elise McWorter Kirkpatrick Wheaton can be found throughout most of the series; some can be identified e.g. through their mailing labels.

Series 7: International Bookfairs, 1969-2023

Arranged into 2 sections: (1) International Bookfair of Radical Black and Third World Books, and (2) Caribbean Peoples International Bookfair and Bookfair Festival.

This series contains materials about international bookfairs that McWorter had either helped organize or attended as member of Peoples College (PC) and/or manager of its bookstores.

International Bookfair of Radical Black and Third World Books (London), 1982-1995

Posters are listed first followed by photographs. The remaining materials are then arranged chronologically by bookfair and chronologically thereunder. George Padmore Institute materials are listed at the end, arranged chronologically.

Also called "London Book Fair" and "The Black Book Fair," the International Bookfair of Radical Black and Third World Books was founded in 1982 and organized by three Black publishers based in London: New Beacon Books, Race Today Publications, and Bogle-L'Ouverture Publications. PC or its bookstores participated in these bookfairs from 1982-1995, collecting materials, linking up with international booksellers, and selling PC print materials from their Timbuktu bookstore (Chicago) and Twenty-First Century Books.

Among his many activities and activist engagement, John La Rose (1927-2006) was co-founder of the Workers Freedom Movement in Trinidad & Tobago, General Secretary of the West Indian Independence Party, and European Representative of the Oilfield Workers Trade Union (OWTU) from 1962 to 2006. He also established the George Padmore Institute (GPI) in 1991. After moving to London, La Rose and his partner, Sarah White, founded and directed New Beacon Books, the "first black publisher, specialist bookshop and international book distributor" in the United Kingdom (1966-2006). La Rose also directed the International Book Fair of Radical Black and Third World Books from 1982-1995 (see: New Beacon Books, "The Story of New Beacon Books," https://www.newbeaconbooks.com/new-beacon-books-1 (Accessed August 27, 2026)).

This series also contains material relating to the George Padmore Institute. La Rose was its chairman of from 1991-2006. For more on John La Rose, see Series 7: International Bookfairs – Caribbean Peoples International Bookfair and Bookfair Festival – Oilfield Workers Trade Union (OWTU), and Series 7: International Bookfairs – International Bookfair of Radical Black and Third World Books - George Padmore Institute.

Caribbean Peoples International Bookfair and Bookfair Festival

Arranged by Organization/Bookfair, in chronological order by formation date, and chronologically thereunder.

Organized by the OWTU and hosted in Trinidad & Tobago, this Bookfair was a sister fair to the International Bookfair and Bookfair Festival held annually in London.

Created by the OWTU in 1987, the Caribbean Peoples International Bookfair and Bookfair Festival convened annually in Trinidad & Tobago, bringing together book sellers and the public from across the world. The first Bookfair coincided with the 50th anniversary of OWTU. McWorter participated in this and subsequent bookfairs as a member of Peoples College and a representative of Twenty-First Century Books. While McWorter was not a member of OWTU, he was close with David Abdullah, who led the Committee for Labor Solidarity (CLS) and was also an OWTU member. Given this relationship, and the many later activist groups which branched off from OWTU, these records have been compiled here.

This series also contains memorial material on John La Rose (1927-2006), co-founder of the Workers Freedom Movement in Trinidad & Tobago, General Secretary of the West Indian Independence Party, and European Representative of the OWTU (1962-2006). After moving to London, he and his partner, Sarah White, founded and directed New Beacon Books, the "first black publisher, specialist bookshop and international book distributor" in the United Kingdom (1966-2006), and directed the International Book Fair of Radical Black and Third World Books (1982-1995).[1] From 1991-2006, he was also Chairman of the George Padmore Institute. For more on John La Rose, see Series 7: International Bookfairs – Caribbean Peoples International Bookfair and Bookfair Festival – Oilfield Workers Trade Union (OWTU), and Series 7: International Bookfairs – International Bookfair of Radical Black and Third World Books - George Padmore Institute.

Black Radical Congress (BRC) / New Communist Movement

Arranged into 6 sections: (1) General Records, (2) Website Files, (3) Archives, (4) Publications, (5) Publicity, and (6) Grey Literature; chronologically thereunder.

The Black Radical Congress was a grassroots organization founded in 1996 by a committee of 5, including Abdul Alkalimat (Gerald McWorter), Barbara Ransby, Bill Fletcher, Manning Marable, and Leith Mullings. Comprised of individuals and organizations of African descent, the BRC aimed to address global black issues such as economic and racial equality and social justice by organizing a Congress in Chicago, which took place on Juneteenth (June 19-22, 1998). Other significant meetings occurred in New York City, Washington D.C., and Atlanta. At its height, the group had 2,000 members.
Gerald McWorter was a founder and executive committee member of the BRC.

Black Left Unity Network (BLUN) / New Communist Movement

Arranged chronologically.

The Black Left Unity Network was developed circa 2013 by Gerald McWorter and Saladeen Mohammed. The Black Liberation Movement was "dispersed and lacking in unity," so the BLUN aimed to bring together different wings of the movement through their publication Black Activist, which was an online bulletin of approximately 4 issues.

Communist Labor Party (CLP) / New Communist Movement

Arranged into 3 sections: (1) Records, (2) Publications, and (3) Grey Literature; chronologically thereunder.

The Communist Labor Party was founded by Nelson Peery in 1974 and disbanded in 1993. Gerald McWorter served on the Central Committee of the CLP from 1992-1993. This mainly white, national organization was headquartered in Chicago, IL and consisted of approximately 500 members. Predecessor organizations include the Provisional Organizing Committee to Reconstitute the Marxist-Leninist Communist Party (POC) (which had split/purged from the Communist Party USA) and the Communist League (CL). Successor organizations include the National Organizing Committee (NOC) and League of Revolutionaries for a New America (LRNA).

Forward Advancing Our Community Through Struggle (FACTS)

Arranged chronologically.

FACTS (Forward Advancing Our Community Through Struggle/Forward Advancing Our Community Through Socialism) was comprised of approximately 10 members, all African American, which formed in 1988 in Chicago, IL. FACTS defined itself as a 'collective of progressive Black people, from varying backgrounds and social experiences, dedicated to community oriented political educational programs. As we strive to advance our program for a new society overall, our focus is on the theory and practice necessary to eliminate racism, economic exploitation, and gender discrimination. We are concerned about the impact of these problems on our families and communities." [1] The organization only lasted for one year, from 1988-1989. According to Gerald McWorter, he was a founder and a member of the organization.

Institute of the Black World (Atlanta, GA)

Arrangement: Photographs are listed first; folders arranged chronologically thereafter.

The Institute of the Black World was an Arican American "think tank" based in Atlanta, Georgia from 1969-1983, which aimed to "conduct research that would positively impact the lives of African people worldwide." [1] Initially known as the W.E.B. Du Bois Institute for Advanced Afro-American Studies, the Institute originated with a request from Coretta Scott King, recent widow of MLK Jr., to Vincent Harding, to direct the MLK Library Documentation Project. Harding accepted, suggesting that the Institute be an independent research project, rather than an affiliate of the MLK Jr. Memorial Center or the Atlanta University Center (AUC), as proposed. Shortly thereafter, the name was changed to the Institute of the Black World (IBW). [1]

The IBW acted as part of a network of scholarly institutions, including several universities, HBCUs, and Black organizations such as the African Heritage Studies Association (AHSA) and the Congress of African People (CAP). Their work included conducting and disseminating research to benefit Africans worldwide in the form of lecture tapes and manuscripts, scholarly research papers, hosting conferences, and the widely-read "Black-World-View" newspaper column. Hiring only Black staff, however, led to the IBW's perception as "separatist," and in 1970 the IBW voted to separate entirely from the MLK Memorial Center, which led to financial instability. By 1983, these financial issues became insurmountable, and the IBW disbanded. [1]

National Organizing Committee (NOC) / New Communist Movement

Arranged into 7 sections: (1) General, (2) Committee Meetings & Reports, (3) Conferences & Seminars, (4) People's Tribune, (5) Project South, (6) Publications, and (7) Communist League.

The National Organizing Committee existed from 1993-1994 and was comprised of 500 mainly white members, with national headquarters in Chicago, IL. Gerald McWorter was on the Political Committee and Steering Committee, also serving as International Secretary for the group. NOC began as POC (a group which split off from CPUSA), which turned into the Communist League (CL), then CLP, and then NOC.

In 1995, NOC turned into the League of Revolutionaries for a New America (LRNA). International May Day was a major connecting point between NOC and LRNA, as well as with the Belgian Communist League and US Labor Party. For more on the LRNA, see League of Revolutionaries for a New America.

Revolutionary Communist Party (RCP) / New Communist Movement

Arranged into 2 sections: (1) Records, and (2) Publications; chronologically thereunder.

According to McWorter's recollections (conversations and emails 2022-2025), in 1975, the Revolutionary Communist Party (RCP) emerged out of struggles within the Revolutionary Union (RU, the RU had originated in 1968 in the California Bay Area). McWorter was a member of the Central Committee and Political Bureau of the RCP for two years. It was comprised of 1,000 (mostly white) members, with national headquarters in Chicago, IL.

In 1977, the RCP split, forming the Revolutionary Workers Headquarters (RWH). McWorter was not part of the RWH but continued to collect some materials relating to their work. Later, a portion of the RWH developed into the Freedom Road Socialist Organization (FRSO), of which McWorter described himself as a friend.

Several successor organizations emerged out of the RCP, and records of many of these can be found in Series 15. However, McWorter was not a member of these offshoot groups. First, the RCP split into two groups: RCP and the Revolutionary Workers Headquarters (RWH). Later, the Freedom Road Socialist Organization (FRSO) split off from the RWH, and the FRSO ultimately split into FRSO Midwest and Liberation Road (East Coast).

Each of these groups had a youth branch. The Revolutionary Student Brigade (RSB) (initially part of the RU and continuing as part of the RCP after 1975) split at the same time as RCP in 1977. Part of RSB joined the Revolutionary Workers Headquarters (RWH), retaining the name RSB. The other part of the RSB formed the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade (RCYB), which remained the youth branch of the RCP.

Revolutionary Workers' League (RWL) / New Communist Movement

Arranged chronologically.

Formed in 1973, the RWL was a national organization comprised of groups such as the Malcolm X Liberation University, SOBU, African Liberation Day Coordinating Committee, People's College, and the ALSC. With about 250 members, 90% of whom were African American, the organization lasted from 1973-1977. Gerald McWorter was on the Political Committee and the Standing Committee of the RWL.

In 1966/67, members of the RWL joined with members of the Revolutionary Communist Party (RCP) who had been part of the African Liberation Support Committee (ALSC) in separating from the group to form the Organizing Committee for a New ALSC (OC-ALSC). For more on the ALSC, see Series 5: African Liberation Movement – African Liberation Support Committee.

McWorter's Calendars

Note: many calendars have few entries and little content. This may reflect the rational fears of those engaged in African liberation, Black studies, the black liberation movement, the new communism movement, and others that they may be tracked and persecuted.

Series 10: Correspondence, 1964-2018

This series is divided into 2 sections: (1) Correspondence, 1964-2008, and (2) Correspondence, 1966-2018.

Unfortunately, correspondence was separated from its original context over the years. That means the specific organizations, topics, events etc. to which a correspondent reacted in their letter can either no longer be determined or would need item level detailed research - which is beyond the resources of the archives.

Correspondence, 1964-2008

Arranged alphabetically.

The first section contains folders McWorter had called "Correspondence." In the summer of 2026, a donation of correspondence folders was transferred from McWorter's three large storage annexes. These materials are section 1 "Correspondence, 1964-2008."
While folders may contain correspondence to/from named people and organizations, they may also contain catalogs, flyers, articles, course syllabi, CVs/resumes, photographs, or grey literature. Folders clearly related to organizations/record creators elsewhere in the collection were moved.

In the early 2010s , McWorter pulled these folders out of other files, drawers, and boxes in his annexes (e.g., subject files, organizational records, and personal papers). Because of this, specific organizations, topics, events etc. to which a correspondent reacted in their letter can either no longer be determined or would need item level detailed research - which is beyond the resources of the archives.
Unless researchers know the name of a person they are interested in, they will have to look through all of the Gerald McWorter Papers to find individuals related to certain organizations, topics, or events, such as e.g. Peoples College or African liberation.

Correspondence, 1966-2018

This section is arranged chronologically; correspondence which McWorter put into folders are listed alphabetically at the end of each decade.

The archives received this donation of McWorter's correspondence in 2022. These materials are section 2: "Correspondence, 1966-2018."
Because correspondents and types of materials might be rare and are probably not documented in written histories, we decided - and had the student staff at the time - to list all correspondents at the item level.

Letters with no month are listed at the end of the relevant year. Names of correspondents are spelt out; a few names were not included in the correspondence or could not be deciphered.

Series 11: Talks, Publications, and Publicity, 1960-2026

Arrangement into 3 sections: (1) Talks; (2) Publications; and (3) Publicity.

Talks, 1960s-2026

Arranged by decade and two categories thereunder: (1) Activist Talks and (2) Academic/Community Lectures and Conferences; chronologically thereunder.

Activist Talks consist of McWorter's public speeches as a member of political and/or activist organizations. Activist conferences/lectures are listed at the item-level: they will be less likely to be available elsewhere and may be of major research interest.
Academic/Community Lectures and Conferences contain (1) McWorter's talks such as conference presentations, lectures, etc. in his capacity as professor; (2) Community presentations to the general public. Academic/Community lectures and conferences are usually only listed at the folder level.

Series 12: Volumes of Copied Records, Talks, and Writings, 1961-2017

Arranged by volume number. Note: neither volumes and contents are in chronological order.
In the following list, YYY indicates "items" not on McWorter's website as of July 2023.

McWorter created bound compilations of photocopied materials and called these volumes 'works. The 31 volumes include lectures, writings (also drafts), proposals and student proposals, flyers, conference speeches and materials, organizational records, newspaper articles, court recordings, bibliographies, syllabi, reports, and political materials labelled "People's College Press," among others. More than half of the materials are authored by McWorter. Most of these materials are available on his website under "Writings:" https://alkalimat.org/writings.html (accessed September 9, 2026) (also preserved via the Wayback machine). Volume 16 was moved to Series 4: Black Studies – University Black Studies Programs – California, as all of its content relates to the program and originals apparently no longer exist.

While many if not most materials in the volumes are duplicates of records elsewhere in the collection, you will find some copied items for which originals apparently no longer exist. Bos lists will contain duplicates.

Series 13: Subject Files and Literature, 1848-2018

Arrangement into 3 sections: (1) Subject Files, 1848-2010s; (2) African American Literature, 1926-2016; and (3) General Grey Literature, 1950s-2016.

Grey literature, literature, ephemera, secondary sources, etc. are relatively well-defined terms. Because McWorter collected all kinds of materials and usually kept them together regardless of type, we faced the dilemma of what term to use when describing them. And we did not want to separate them out by type unless they were kept that way. We therefore use the term 'grey literature' loosely, to refer to all kinds of materials. Sometimes we add the term 'ephemera,' if a section contains a substantive number of ephemera.

Subject Files, 1848-2010s

Arrangement: Posters are listed first. Subject files are organized alphabetically by (original) topics; chronologically thereunder. Some of these files were originally compiled by Ronald Bailey.

General Grey Literature, 1950s-2016

Arranged chronologically.

Grey literature, literature, ephemera, secondary sources, etc. are relatively well-defined terms. Because McWorter collected all kinds of materials and usually kept them together regardless of type, we faced the dilemma of what term to use when describing them. And we did not want to separate them out by type unless they were kept that way. We therefore use the term 'grey literature' loosely, to refer to all kinds of materials. Sometimes we add the term 'ephemera,' if a section contains a substantive number of ephemera.

Series 14: Black Liberation Movement (BLM) Grey Literature and Ephemera, 1960-2025

Arranged into 5 sections: (1) Posters, (2) General (chronological), (3) BLM Organizations – United States (alphabetical by name, chronological thereunder), (4) Publications about BLM – United States (alphabetical by state, alphabetical by title, chronological thereunder), and (5) Publications about BLM – International (alphabetical by country, alphabetical by title, chronological thereunder).

The Black Liberation Movement series contains records of organizations participating in or publishing on the Black Liberation Movement, and grey literature about the movement within the United States. Many of the organizations listed below are Black or primarily Black organizations, but not all.

Gerald McWorter participated in the BLM largely as a member of People's College (Series 6). The groups below include those that McWorter collaborated with or collected on, but of which he was not a member. For organizations in which McWorter was active, see Series 8.

For organizations working specifically on African Liberation, see Series 5: African Liberation –International Support Groups – Individual Countries – United States of America (USA) (particularly African American Repatriation Association).

Series 15: New Communism Movement Grey Literature and Ephemera, 1944-2014

Arranged into 4 sections: (1) Posters, (2) United States – Organizations, (3) United States – Publications, and (4) International Organizations & Publications. Groups/organizations are arranged alphabetically and chronologically thereunder. Publications are arranged alphabetically (by state for US and by country for international), and chronologically thereunder.

Materials document organizations in which McWorter was not a member. However, he either stayed up to date with what they were doing (and thus collected their materials) or he collaborated with these groups. For organizations in which McWorter was active, see Series 4, Series 5: African Liberation – African Liberation Support Committee, Series 6, and Series 8.

Grey literature, literature, ephemera, secondary sources, etc. are relatively well-defined terms. Because McWorter collected all kinds of materials and usually kept them together regardless of type, we faced the dilemma of what term to use when describing them. We did not want to separate them out by type unless they were kept that way. We therefore use the term 'grey literature' loosely, to refer to all kinds of materials. Sometimes we add the term 'ephemera,' if a series or section contained a substantive number of ephemera.

Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade (RCYB) (Chicago, IL)

According to McWorter's recollections (conversations and emails 2022-2025), the Revolutionary Student Brigade (RSB) began as part of the Revolutionary Union (RU). The RU was the immediate precursor to the Revolutionary Communist Party (RCP). After 1975 the Revolutionary Student Brigade continued as the student organization of the RCP when the RCP emerged out of struggles within the RU. In 1977, the RCP split into RCP and the Revolutionary Workers Headquarters (RWH). Part of the RSB joined the RWH, retaining the name RSB. The other part of the RSB formed the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade (RCYB), which remained the youth branch of the RCP

Revolutionary Union (RU)

Arrangement: Records are listed chronologically, then publications/periodicals chronologically, and grey literature chronologically.

According to McWorter's recollections (conversations and emails 2022-2025), the Revolutionary Union (RU) originated in 1968 in the California Bay Area and was the immediate precursor to the Revolutionary Communist Party (RCP). McWorter was not part of the RU but collected some their materials as part of Peoples College (PC). In 1975, the RCP emerged out of struggles within the RU.
McWorter was a member of the RCP Central Committee and Political Bureau for two years.

In 1977, the RCP split into RCP and the Revolutionary Workers Headquarters (RWH). McWorter was not a RWH member but continued to collect some of their materials. Some time later, a section within RWH developed into the Freedom Road Socialist Organization (FRSO) of which McWorter described himself as a friend.

Each of these groups had a youth branch. The Revolutionary Student Brigade (RSB) (initially part of the RU and continuing as part of the RCP after 1975) split at the same time as RCP in 1977. Part of RSB joined the Revolutionary Workers Headquarters (RWH), retaining the name RSB. The other part of the RSB formed the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade (RCYB), which remained the youth branch of the RCP.
For more information on RCP, see Series 8: Leadership in Other Organizations/Parties – Revolutionary Communist Party.

White Lightning (Bronx, NY)

White Lightning was a group of ex-addicts in Bronx who used to be part of Logos, a residential drug treatment center. Over disagreements whether members should form a revolutionary utopian community and after black and Latino members refused to work with its white members in 1971, it came to a split. Subsequently white members formed White Lightning as an activist organization.
